Most apartment viewings begin in the apartment. This one begins the moment you push open the street door. Spotless entrance, common areas clearly looked after, two elevators and accessibility ramps from the street. Small details, but they tell you instantly how much pride the residents take in where they live. That level of care is what quietly protects the value of a home over the long run. The apartment itself sits on the second floor, 85 square metres, two bedrooms, one bathroom, and a balcony that faces east. The first light of the day pours straight into it, which turns the morning coffee into something worth getting up for. An...(Ask for More Details!)
